

S is for

Sled

The first sleds were traditionally made of wood, but today they are much more high-tech. Many mushers today make their sleds from a variety of materials, including hockey sticks. The sled hold all the mushers' gear including extra dog booties, dog food, cooker, snow shoes, and many other things. Mushers can also send out additional sleds on the trail, in case a sled breaks or if they want a lighter one towards the end of the race.

